Become part of the safety culture at your workplace
Agricultural work can be dangerous. It is therefore key to reflect about health and safety, address health and safety issues, and engage in collaboration on health and safety to ensure that all employees works safely. This presentation will outline central elements of safety culture in Danish agriculture, and key issues to be aware of.
Also, the presentation will encourage reflections and dialogue about health and safety, and provide an opportunity to propose ways that health and safety for migrant workers in Danish agriculture could be improved.
